

The Hunt for the Priceless Projector

By David H Urmann

Projectors are devices used for displaying images on a projector screen or a similar surface. There are several types of projectors that can be loosely classified into three general kinds: video projectors, transparency projectors and opaque projectors.

Video projectors create images from a video signal by using a lens system with very bright light. Once the image is clea....